OFFFICIAL PAREN OF THE CUTY OF ALMA, MICHIGAN

PROTECTION BECOMING WORLD-WIDE

For years the debate has gone on as to the merits of a protective tariff and free trade. Each side of the controversy has had very able exponents, but as times goes on it becomes more and more apparent that all countries are feeling the need of protecting their own industries by an equalizing or protective tariff. It is apparent that the policy of the United States is recognized as sound.

A bill has been introduced in the Argentine Congress which provides for a 30 per cent increase in customs duties on imported goods, with a 60 per cent increase on luxuries, effective three months after the law is promulgated. Provision is made whereby the Executive is authorized to suspend the increase, wholly or in part, on merchandise originating in countries which provide for fair treatment in the way of duties on Argentine cereals, hides and skins, wool, live stock, and subsidiary products of agriculture and pastoral industry.

In Austria the tariff has been increased on a large number of commodities by a law made effective July 20, 1921. It is stated that this law was passed in accordance with a promise made by the Government to the league of nations to increase its revenue-bearing customs duties. Certain groups of goods have been marked up to 150 times their former custom house duties. Included in this group are coffee, tea, cocoa, sugar, fruits, etc. This is known as Group 384. In Group 586 are a number of articles imported from the United States such as preserved fruits. marmalade, rubber boots, high grade textiles, tires, water-proof wearing apparel, etc. Other goods pay 120 times the pre-war duties, as do those in Group 386.

In British East Africa duties have been revised upward and many American commodities will be affected thereby. British Honduras has increased its rates on dutiable goods by 33 per cent, while the British preferential rate of 10 per cent remains unchanged. In Jugoslavia the maximum rates have in most cases been doubled. Rumania has raised her duty rates, and the Department of Commerce is awaiting the final adoption of the recent Australian tariff before publishing the complete text which will show large increases in duty rates with Great Britain enjoying a preferential in the Australian markets. Likewise, in the Barbadoes, duty rates have been increased, but the Britons enjoy

On August 6th, last, the bill proposing an increase of customs duties on automobiles and parts passed the Czechoslovakian Chamber of Deputies, providing duties of 90 per cent of the purchase price. Czechoslovakia supports a licensing system under which, according to the U. S. Consul, "the class of goods not usually allowed to be imported includes articles of luxury, and products manufactured in large quantities in Czechoslovakia for export, such as chocolate, furniture, paper, table fall have a faise notion of what the fires started at such times when the glass, porcelain, mineral waters, woolen fabrics, etc." Bureau- higher education can do for them. sites were deserted and could not cratic protection. Little Latvia has increased the duty rates on They have the mistaken idea that a bave been done through any human many goods, but maintains low rates or free entry on machinery, glannor tools, and raw materials because of a shortage of those articles. which all doors open easily.

Attention was called to the fact some time ago that after three-quarters of a century of free trade, England had returned sions in all problems are ound and to the policy of protection by way of a bill known as the "Safe- sensible. He should be able to read guarding of Industries" law which places duties on a wide range and write and talk well, so that he of articles equal to one-third the value of the goods. France has marked up her rates and so has Japan.

These increases in tariff duties on the part of many foreign countries have been recorded within the last few months. Had exact conditions in any problem that the Republican tariff law been placed on the American statute he has to face. Also he should have books six months ago there would have been a great deal of free trade sophism to the effect that these foreign tariff increases were being enacted in the way of retaliation against the United States for restoring the time-honored protective tariff policy. But our tariff law may not be enacted before the early part of |do him no good .- St. Johns News. 1922. Surely these countries are not retaliating against us because of an American law which is not yet in existence, but because they have found that the protective policy is helpful to them. And so it will be to us.

AUTUMN DAYS Autumn days are with us again and once more Mother Nature is busy painting the leaves on the trees and shrubs and vines with all sorts of brilliant and delicate colors. And as we study the results of her efforts we are forced to admit that she has a wonderful paint box and that she knows how to mix the various tints, for we find every variety of color from delicate pink to dingy brown, from flaming scarlet to dull green and flashing yellow. This autumn she has been more than generous with us, for she has supplied us with so many beautiful days when the sun shines brightly and the air is not too cool for enjoyment and the grass is fresh and green because of a sufficient amount of moisture. And we should take advantage of her prodigality and spend all the time possible out of doors, breathing deeply and enjoying to the full the beauty that surrounds us, for the winter is near at hand and we should lay us by in store all the vigor and enjoyment possible so that it may remain with us through the cold bleak months which are just ahead.

And it would seem that Mother Nature is indeed a wise and beneficient parent to mankind. For she so regulates the seasons and the good things that constantly surround us, that none need long suffer from extremes of heat and cold, and that there is enough of beauty and fresh air and wonderful coloring and lovely flowers so that no one need go without, but all can enjoy to the full all these things which come to them as a free gift of nature.

LESSON ENOUGH

Hudson Maxim told an Atlantic City audience that a merchant marine was as necessary to us in time of peace as a navy is in time of war, and he was right. Trade rivalry calls for trade boats, if we are to succeed; and trade boats are mighty helpful to a navy if we should be called upon to uphold our rights. We have had lesson enough in both phases of the matter to warn us against the idea of surrendering the sca to foreign competitors.

The Story of Like Our Own Politicians, Sultan Preferred Any Eventuality to Our States Being Forgotten.

> At Trengganu (Malay Peninsuia) the native sultan welcomed me and I spent several days with him, telling him what was happening in the world and discussing his problems. The problems were largely financial. He owed some money, and, knowing that he had something in the treasury, I asked why he did not pay his debts.

He thought for a time and then replied: "Well, I'll tell you. If I pay those people, they will forget about the sultan of Trengganu. If I don't pay them, they'll never forget me."

The conversation turned to the subject of prisoners. On my way to the palace I had passed the cages where the prisoners were kept. Many of them were starving to death, for unless their friends or family cared for them they got no food. "Why don't you feed them?"

"Why should 1?" he replied, "If I feed them, my whole country will want

Samuel Untermyer, the brilliant New York lawyer, who probed the building question, said in a discussion about

"Business men are honorable; or they don't get on. Even big business men are honorable. Of course, few business men are as punctilious about a point of honor, though, as Honest John Jones was. "Honest John Jones, you know, once stole on tiptoe, fountain pen in hand, into the empty walting room of his hotel. He stepped stealthily up to an inkwell, advanced his fountain pen towards the ink, then drew back with a start.

"'No!' he grouned, striking his brow with his palm. 'No, I cannot fill my fountain pen with the hotel's ink-it would not be honorable."

War of Science on Diseases.

Of the diseases of men and animals known to be infectious, Dr. Walter E. King counts up 38 having organisms not yet discovered that are believed to be so small as to pass through the customary filters. These include chickenpox, rables, dengue fever, small-pox, trachoma, measles, poliomyelitis, scarlet fever, typhus and mumps, and yellow fever was in the list until Doctor Noguchl's recent discovery of the organism. As in the case of tuberculosis, knowledge of the organism does not always bring a direct remedy. On the other hand, steps toward eradicating yellow fever, through the destruction of the germ-carrying mosquito, were made possible while the disease organism was still unknown,
